CREATING THE FUTURE OF LEARNING
Once upon a time, professionals acquired a single set of skills. Those days are long gone. Today, the average professional will continue to acquire knowledge and skills for a lifetime.

For a century, UCLA Extension has educated professionals to be successful. But that’s just the beginning. UCLA Extension is at the cusp of an emerging educational frontier, working to create revolutionary ways of learning and new approaches to engaging adults in professional development.

For the next 100 years, UCLA Extension’s mission is to be at the forefront of continuing education. To do this, we are embracing new technologies, innovative ways of learning, and curriculum designed to help transform lives, businesses, and communities.
WHAT IS UCLA EXTENSION?

UCLA Extension is the continuing education division of the University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA). As one of the nation’s largest and most comprehensive continuing higher education programs, UCLA Extension offers thousands of skills-focused courses taught at the highest level.

We offer:

- A UCLA-approved curriculum
- Open enrollment—most courses and programs require no admissions decision
- Evening, weekend, daytime, and online courses
- Locations throughout Los Angeles: UCLA Campus, Westwood, Downtown, Woodland Hills, and beyond
- Certificates with academic credit, professional credit, transferable undergraduate degree-credit, and continuing education credit*
- Instructors who are leading experts and professional practitioners in their fields
- Courses specifically designed for working adults, college students, and lifelong learners
- Accreditation through Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC)

CONTINUING EDUCATION OF THE BAR (CEB) | CALIFORNIA

CEB is a self-supporting program of the University of California. UCLA Extension is a provider of Minimum Continuing Legal Education (MCLE) units as approved by the State Bar of California. CEB is the go-to source for lawyers on information about the law, and the practice of law, in California.

*Transfer credit is conferred by the receiving institution, not the issuing one; therefore, to determine if a UCLA Extension course can transfer to another school, contact the institution to which you plan to transfer.
WHAT UCLA EXTENSION PROFESSIONAL CERTIFICATES MEAN TO EMPLOYERS

UCLA Extension offers 180+ Academic Senate-approved UCLA certificates.
Most certificates are composed of courses that yield professional-level academic credit. UCLA Extension also offers shorter, informal series of courses that conform to the requirements of licensing boards, industry groups, corporations, and state agencies in a variety of fields.

Professional certificates demonstrate to employers and clients that there is a commitment to a profession. Certificates are evidence of skills, knowledge, and ability to perform a job.

• 76% of certificate holders feel more fulfilled in their careers
• 85% feel more confident in their careers

Certificate value translates into:
• Better employment and advancement opportunities and options
• Competitive advantage
• Higher wages
• New career opportunities
• Professional networks

“I am forever grateful to the stellar education provided by UCLA Extension and the constant mentorship and guidance provided by exceptional teachers and administrators.”

A BRIEF HISTORY OF UCLA EXTENSION:
100 YEARS OF EXCELLENCE

UCLA Extension:

- 1917—opens a permanent location in Los Angeles on August 11. In its first year, Extension had 1,684 students enrolled in 97 classes.
- 1948—moves its southern California team from downtown Los Angeles to the UCLA campus in Westwood.
- 1955—presents the first Technical Management Program, designed for engineers transitioning from engineering to management positions.
- 1966—establishes the Writers’ Program. Today, the Writers’ Program is the largest open enrollment writing program in the nation.
- 1975—begins the American Language Center (ALC) to teach English as a second language. Today the program draws an annual enrollment of over 3,000 international students from over 40 countries.
- 1991—establishes a special unit devoted to Entertainment Studies.
- 1996—establishes itself as an early leader in distance learning by offering courses through the Internet.
- 2007—launches the Pathway Program, an academic program especially designed for young adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities.
- 2014—certificate graduates automatically become members of the UCLA Alumni Association.
- 2017—observes its centennial year. As part of its commitment to continuing to serve the community, Extension opens a new location in Woodland Hills.
UCLA Extension is an integral part of UCLA but receives no direct or indirect state or university funding for its general operations. Its program of continuing education is supported entirely by student enrollment fees, contracts, sponsorships, and philanthropy.

Financial Aid
UCLA Extension offers programs that qualify for federal financial aid loans and grants, private alternative educational loans, and veterans’ benefits.

Scholarships
UCLA Extension offers grants and scholarships to qualified certificate students. There are a limited number of institutional and private scholarships for specific programs. Please visit our Financial Aid Office for more information and applications.

Alumni Services
Students who complete an Academic Certificate at UCLA Extension receive automatic membership in the UCLA Alumni Association, joining a vast and vibrant global Bruin community. UCLA Extension strives to foster the ongoing growth and engagement of its alumni through professional development workshops, networking events, and social gatherings.

UCLA Alumni Discount
Members of the UCLA Alumni Association, other UC Alumni Associations, and UC staff are eligible for a 10 percent discount on UCLA Extension courses, up to $50.

Career Services
UCLA Extension offers an array of career resources to assist students and alumni with career exploration, decision making, and developing job search and networking skills, as well as facilitating employer connections. The online UCLA Extension Career Center acts as the hub for information on the latest career news, events, industry trends, employment opportunities, and career advice. Students and alumni can also subscribe to receive weekly Career Services alerts with tailored content based on their user profile. Additional career support is available through a partnership with InsideTrack Online Career Coaching services for those needing guidance with job search or career planning. In addition, certificate students and graduates are eligible to subscribe to BruinView, the UCLA Career Center online job board, with access to thousands of job postings from top employers.
